The American Red Cross relies heavily on our local media. We would not collect our 66,000 pint goal without the wonderful support of all the radio stations in New Hampshire.

WZID helps us out by doing several large drives each year dating back to 1997 – a large winter drive and the Annual Chill & Grill drive in Nashua each summer. The combined totals for all of these drives from 1997-2007 totals 6,034 pints!!

Additionally, WZID helps us in the Manchester area and also for the 600 pint Singer Memorial blood drive.

WKBK in Keene helps out each month with a live remote. This is a big help in reaching our goal of 85 units each month.

WMWV in the Mt. Washington Valley does a live remote each time we are in the valley. Helping us collect over 700 units each year.

In the Concord area we work closely with the NASSAU Broadcasting Group (WNNH, WJYY, 93.3 The Wolf, 102.3 The Hawk).

WNNH does the Law Enforcement drive – 259 pints collected (due in large part to the Officer Briggs Memorial).

93.3 The Wolf does a drive in June with a goal of 75 – 47 units collected this June. We use this group to promote the St. John's Church and Immaculate Heart of Mary Church drives (monthly drives with goals of 75 and 55 respectively).

WKXL 1450 AM promotes Concord area drives and will do news stories and interviews on the blood supply.

WTPL 107.7 in Concord (Ken Cail) promotes the Concord area drives and were big in promoting the Law Memorial drive.

WGIR used for Manchester and Bedford drives. They also support the Annual Monarchs blood drive at the Verizon Center.

the Granite State Legislature was pre- dominantly Republican, but during a year of disastrous military reversals, many Republicans became disheartened, and in 1813, there was a Federalist land- slide.

Struthers suggests that the June 14, 1814, petition to Concord by citizens of Packersfield requesting the change of their town's name to "Nelson," was pre- sented to a receptive Federalist Legisla- ture that eagerly embraced it. Although Lord Nelson died nine years before, the town's grudge against Thomas Packer, of Portsmouth, for not relinquishing part of his land holdings in recognition of naming the town in his honor had been smoldering for decades. It seems plausible that the name "Nelson" had either been selected before the War of 1812, but not until 1814 was there a friendly Federalist Legislature to give it ratification, or perhaps the political irony that accompanied the new name was intentional. Struthers concludes, "Our forefathers matched the audacity and determination of the great Admiral who they honored."

The Cheshire County town of Nelson received its name on Oct. 1, 1814, 17 days after the British bombardment of Baltimore's Fort M'Henry and Francis Scott Key's composition of "The Star Spangled Banner," and 16 days before the Massachusetts Legislature issued its call for the "Hartford Convention" to de- bate New England's "public grievances and concerns," and possible separation from the Union, to which Cheshire Coun- ty sent delegates.

Radio flood reporting was helpful

To The Sentinel:

Kudos to the Monadnock Radio Group for the over-the-top service provided to its listeners during the storm and flooding situations in the listening area.

We listened to WKBK-1290 and realized it was giving the only reliable, knowledgeable information that was available. We had family members both flooded out and nearly flooded out who relied on the radio station for every bit of flood information pertinent to their specific locations.

The "local" television station was helpful to some extent, but only from a broad viewpoint. Because WKBK's personnel are local people, they were able to provide detailed information from first-hand knowledge of such things as possible detour routes, low-lying areas that were likely to be under- water, up-to-the-minute evacua- tion plans.

WKBK is, at the moment this letter is being written, still giving detailed information for listeners for such things as disposal of flood-damaged items, drying out vari- ous items, safety measures, etc.

Again, a huge thank you to peo- ple such as Al Kulas, Dan Mitchell, and Paul Scheuring for the fantastic jobs they did and are doing (and may continue to do if more rain comes), as well as to each and every other person with- in the Monadnock Radio Group who is providing such excellent service to the listeners.

Pierce students reach out to victims

To The Sentinel:

On Sept. 29, students from Franklin Pierce College stepped up and produced a six-hour live event on FPC TV-25, along with a simulcast on WFPC-LP radio at 105.3 FM.

The effort was spearheaded by Jennifer De Paul, class of 2007, in response to students' questions about how they could reach out to hurricane victims. This was an exciting, student-run program focused on helping those in need.

This kind of activity benefits all involved by making a differ- ence and helping to produce in- dividuals in the community who are future leaders of conscience. We are honored to have worked with such amazing people. The students, along with the college fire department raised more than $6,500, which will be sent directly to Habitat for Humanity

International. Funds will be used to support rebuilding ef- forts in Gulf Coast regions hit hardest by Hurricane Katrina. We thank the campus and com- munity for their generosity.

Subject: Flood coverage

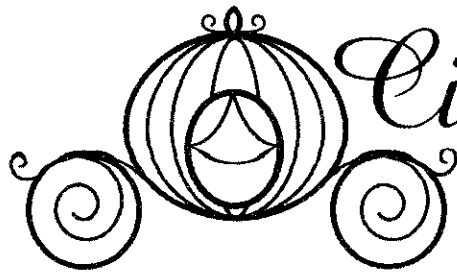

To Dan, Al, Paul, and all the rest;

I am very impressed with your coverage of the Flood of Twenty-O-Five. You guys and the Mighty 1290 should feel proud of what you did, and are doing, for community service to the Monadnock Region. You got needed information out, answered so many questions that all us listeners had in our minds, and notably, on Sunday, just kept going and going and rightly pre-empted scheduled network programming. Thanks for being the information source for a lot of people and doing it in a determined yet calm professional manner.

Thanks to your on-air advice I did not go driving around like I normally would have done out of curiosity. But I did check the Minnewawa Dam and was Niagara Falls as it was overtopped by 5-6 inches. Dan, you must have gone there as a kid. Did you see it on Sunday? It was spectacular since the drop was so deep. Yesterday the level was down about 2 feet and the water was going only out the spillway, plus, I assume, down the penstock to generate electricity.

No problems in Harrisville village aside from a few very minor washout areas.

Dear Mike,

Lisa Blais and I as well as the Board of Directors want to thank you for the opportunity you and MY TV afforded us in order to further expose The Cinderella Project of NH.Org to your audience allowing us to further our mission as part of our Community Outreach Program helping dress young teens for any of their special events.

We cannot thank you enough for helping us feel at ease during the interview and for guiding us in speaking about our program. You were well versed and spent a great amount of time on research which made the interview process more comfortable for us.

You are correct that volunteerism can make the difference in many lives and we are most fortunate to have physical workers from ages 15-82 along with businesses and the public that partner with us with donations but without the generosity of MY TV we could not possibly reach as many new contacts that have been coming in lately.

Derry and Londonderry schools called with new referrals and we received more donations in these areas than previously, plus Gardner did a radio interview with our organization. This would not have been possible without the great exposure from MY TV. The videography added a special touch and brought an emotional level to the program which the public responded to.

We are most appreciative of the time you spent and for helping CPNH.Org reach out to teens in need.

My best,

Joanne Sowa

Subject: Thank you

Dear Mike:

Just wanted to fire off an e-mail and thank you for having me on your show with Chief Sawyer regarding Senate Bill 318. I had very little respect for the last Association President. But Chief Sawyer is surely a winner! What a great guy he is! I am especially grateful for the opportunity to share my view as to why I think Governor Lynch should sign this bill into law. I do apologize that I was not adequately prepared, but only received the invitation at around 5:00 PM that Thursday night. One addendum to the show that I was not aware of at air time was that On Monday (4/24), Governor Janet Napolitano (D) of Arizona, signed SB 1145, what we call the "Castle Doctrine" into law. The legislation was sponsored by Senator Timothy Bee (D-30) and Representative Jonathan Paton (R-30). SB 1145 has two components. One is Castle Doctrine, which presumes you are justified in the use of force if you believe you are in danger of serious bodily harm or death within your home or occupied vehicle. The second and most significant component is the return of the burden of proof in self-defense cases to the state, so law-abiding citizens who are forced to actually use their firearms or other means of protection for self-defense will not be wrongfully imprisoned or financially devastated by costs associated with their legal defense.

I would like to extend to you and any of the staff at MyTV an open invitation to the LFGC to try your hand at some target shooting. The club takes pride in our community education programs in conjunction with New Hampshire Fish and Game Department and, our ranges are regularly and actively used by members of the Londonderry Police Department for training. Perhaps there are staff members that know very little or nothing about firearms and might want to have some exposure and experience. In any event, Please consider the invitation an open one. Mike, would you be so kind as to forward this e-mail on to Rita...My mother has called me about three times asking me to get a taped copy of the show and I would like to chat with her about that...(What a pain)...

Best Regards!

I wanted to take a few moments to thank you for giving me the oppotunity on Friday night to appear on your program and discuss several fire and safety related topics. I had a wonderful time and hope to be able to come back on the air again soon. I was thinking for a show possibly the end of September or Beginning of October. October 8 through the 14 is Fire Prevention week. This years theme is prevent cooking fires how do you feel about doing a discussion about fire prevention week and preventing cooking fires, we could ask fire prevention people from area departments such as Derry, Londonderry, Hudson, Pelham, Manchester and someone from the state fire marshals office and see if they would be interested in talking. Let me know and if there are any other fire or safety related items that you would like me to discuss feel free to have me back on. Thanks

On behalf of the Boston Athletic Association, thank you for joining us in Boston for the 111th Boston Marathon. Your continued coverage and support of our marathon is very much appreciated.

In 2008 the Boston Athletic Association will host the U.S. Olympic Team Trials - Women's Marathon, on Sunday, April 20. Competitors will race past famous landmarks such as the State House and Boston Common as they chase their Olympic dreams along the exciting loop course. On Monday (April 21), runners will line up in Hopkinton for the 112th Boston Marathon. Hotel accommodations will be at a premium in Boston next year; if you intend to come to Boston next April to cover the U.S. Olympic Team Trials - Women's Marathon and the 112th Boston Marathon, please do not hesitate in making your travel plans. Please let us know if we can be of any assistance to you as you make your plans.

We appreciate your ongoing support of the Boston Marathon, and look forward to seeing you on race weekend in 2008.

Subject: Re: Child Custody Show Last Night...

Dear Mike, Nicole, and MyTV Prime Staff,

Thank you for the Child Custody program you did last night. As you could tell there is a systemic problem with how fathers are treated in child custody cases and a huge number of children are being denied the opportunity to have a meaningful father in their lives even when that father is both fit and desirous to be a parent.

I have to tell you that much of the information provided by Attorney Normand of Manchester on last night's program as it related to current New Hampshire law and pending legislation in Concord was inaccurate.

There are two critical bills (along with a couple of others) that are presently being considered by the NH Senate after having passed the House and which could be voted on any day now. They are HB529 (relative to parental rights and responsibilities) and HB1580 (relative to the child support formula).

It is unfortunate that Attorney Normand painted a picture of NH family law that does not exist in reality. There should be suspicion that this is the case solely based upon the number and tone of the calls received during the program from the public.

The problem is huge and widespread in New Hampshire, and the NH Legislature has an opportunity to make an historic difference by enacting laws right now that would protect the father/child relationship without prejudice just as the mother/child relationship has been protected by the family courts for years...

I greatly hope you will consider doing another show as soon as possible with more accurate information on the situation in New Hampshire. It's too bad there weren't any NH-based reform advocates or legislators on the show. You can tell from the public outcry last night how badly the fathers and children of divorce in the state are suffering.

I've included a link below to the NHCUSTODY.ORG press release that went out to the national media wire just this morning.

Smoking Bans: The Topic of Discussion on "It's Your Call with Lynn Doyle"

Background:

"It's Your Call with Lynn Doyle" is a call in show on CN8 (Comcast Network) that addresses topics that are headlines at the regional and local level. The call in show broadcasts in various states (including Connecticut) and will be addressing the topic of smoking bans throughout the U.S.: Smoking has been banned in restaurants and bars in many major cities around the world with much success. Do you think other cities without such bans should follow suit? Or, do you think smokers' rights are being violated? With cigarette smoke being so harmful to your health, would it be a wise decision? a canned food donation for their local community food bank. Donations in 2005 totaled a remarkable 2,500 food items per show.

When a devastating landslide wiped out 13 homes and killed 10 residents of the small seaside town of La Conchita, KTYD-FM in Santa Barbara, California stepped in to help. Morning Host Matt McAllister called the captains of local tourist boats, urging them to start a shuttle service between Santa Barbara and Ventura because the only major highway between the two cities had been closed. For the next week, the shuttle service became the only means of transport for hundreds of local residents to get to and from work. A campaign to help the residents of the town morphed into the "Hear and Now" concert in February that raised more than $150,000.

When parts of Washington County, Ohio and Wood County, West Virginia were hit by severe flooding in January, news/talk station WLTP-AM in Vienna, West Virginia became a lifeline for the community. The station provided ongoing coverage and emergency information related to the flooding, which came only four months after the area had suffered the worst floods in 40 years. The WLTP news team gathered and disseminated up-to-the-minute information during the worst of the crisis and beyond, interviewing local officials, FEMA representatives and others. The station made a point of continuing to air updates on assistance for local residents and businesses until FEMA's deadlines expired.

In the middle of another deadly hurricane season, WYCT-FM in Pensacola, Florida served as an essential source of information and relief for the community. The station went commercial-free for three days following Hurricane Dennis in July, offering continuous coverage and information for residents of storm-stricken areas. WYCT also helped organize a program to connect victims who had lost their homes with Pensacola residents who were spared and could offer an extra room. Last but not least, the station organized and participated in a variety of relief efforts, including a concert with Kenny Rogers that raised $250,000 and the distribution of 10,000 live oak saplings to people who lost trees to hurricane damage.

In the wake of Hurricane Katrina, KCRA-TV in Sacramento, California produced a half-hour special examining the flood threat facing the city of Sacramento and what residents could do to protect themselves and their families. The program was so popular with viewers that the station aired it two more times. Broadcast of the special followed an all-day fundraiser organized by the station that collected $1.5 million for the victims of Katrina.

Host Al Kulas of WKBK-AM in Keene, New Hampshire needed the four-wheel drive in his pickup truck to ford through water in four locations on his way to the station's studio on the morning of Sunday, October 9. Once there, he broadcast for 12 hours straight, providing listeners with updates and emergency information about severe flash floods that shut down roads and prompted widespread evacuations. WKBK was the only station in the area to provide live coverage of the crisis. As a result, police, fire and other officials relied extensively on Kulas throughout the day to keep local residents informed. Arnie Johnson, director of emergency services with the New Hampshire West Chapter of the American Red Cross, called Kulas "a hero" for his work in the aftermath of the flooding.

As Hurricane Rita was bearing down on southwestern Louisiana in late September, KYKZ-FM, KQLK-FM, KAOK-AM, KBIU-FM, KKGB-FM AND KXZZ-AM in Lake Charles, Louisiana prepared their listeners for the worst. In the days and hours before the storm hit, the stations went wall-to-wall with advisories, updates, and interviews with the mayor, police, American Red Cross representatives and other officials. "We had a long list of officials coming in and out of the studios talking about the mandatory evacuation and how to stay safe," said the stations' Susan Lucchesi. Then, once the hurricane came ashore, causing major flooding and power outages throughout the area, the stations scrambled to get back on the air. Within 24 hours of the Saturday landfall, three of the stations, working on generator power, were able to start simulcasting recovery and relief information; all six stations were back on the air by Tuesday. In the weeks that followed, the stations presented "Hurricane Hero" awards to local officials, National

"New Hampshire Gospel Radio"

WVNH and local Community Involvement

The purpose of WVNH 91.1FM, headquartered in the capitol city of Concord, New Hampshire, is to provide biblical teaching, knowledge and encouragement to the local communities in Central New Hampshire communities. With translators in Laconia and Plymouth as well as Concord, the station reaches cities and towns as far south as Manchester, north to Plymouth and Ashland up through Campton, west to Weare and east to Northwood, and around the Lakes Region. On the community level we assist local churches and communities through public service announcements for promotion of their programs and events. On average we produce nearly 100 different PSA's per quarter. Community service projects such as blood drives and disaster relief are high on the agenda. We want to give WVNH a local flavor and to serve all of the communities within our listening area. Many of the programs on WVNH are produced locally to meet specific needs within the community.
